2 Camlas Llangollen

Adeiladwyd y gamlas rhwng 1795 a 1808 gan ddau gawr ym maes peirianneg sifil: Thomas Telford a William Jessop. Gyda'i gilydd, roedd yn ddau yn defnyddio technegau arloesol i oresgyn trafferthion adeiladu mewn ardal fynyddig, yn enwedig wrth adeiladu Thrphont Ddŵr Pontcysyllte sy'n croesi Afon Dyfrdwy ar 19 o ddarnau wedi'u gwneud o haearn bwrw ac ar uchder o 126 troedfedd / 38.4 metr. Llwyddiant rhyfeddol y bartneriaeth ddeinamig hon oedd bod y gamlas wedi'i hadeiladu yn eithriadol o sensitif i'w effaith ar y tirlun o'i chwmpas. Yn wir, daeth, yn fuan, yn destun rhyfeddol a chywreirwydd mawr a denodd lawer o ymwelwyr i'r ardal. Cafodd Camlas a Thrphont Ddŵr Pontcysyllte gydnabyddiaeth ryngwladol am eu pwysigrwydd drwy ddod yn Safle Treftadaeth y Byd yn 2009. Mae'r safle'n ymestyn am 11 milltir o Raeadr Bwlch yr Oernant ychydig ymhellach na Llangollen at Thrphont Ddŵr y Waen a Gledrid yn Swydd Amwythig ac mae'n ffordd wych o dreiddio i'r Ardal o Harddwch Naturiol Eithriadol.

1 Fynnon Oerog

Bron ger y rheilffordd mae Ffynnon Oerog, lle mae dŵr yn codi o'r ddaear. Mae'r dŵr clir, oer, wedi bod yn enwog ers cannoedd o flynyddoedd am ei rinweddau i wella ac roedd "ag enw hynod o dda fel lle i wella cryd y cymalau". Heddiw, mae'r dŵr yn cyflenwi Llangollen a'r ardal o gwmpas.

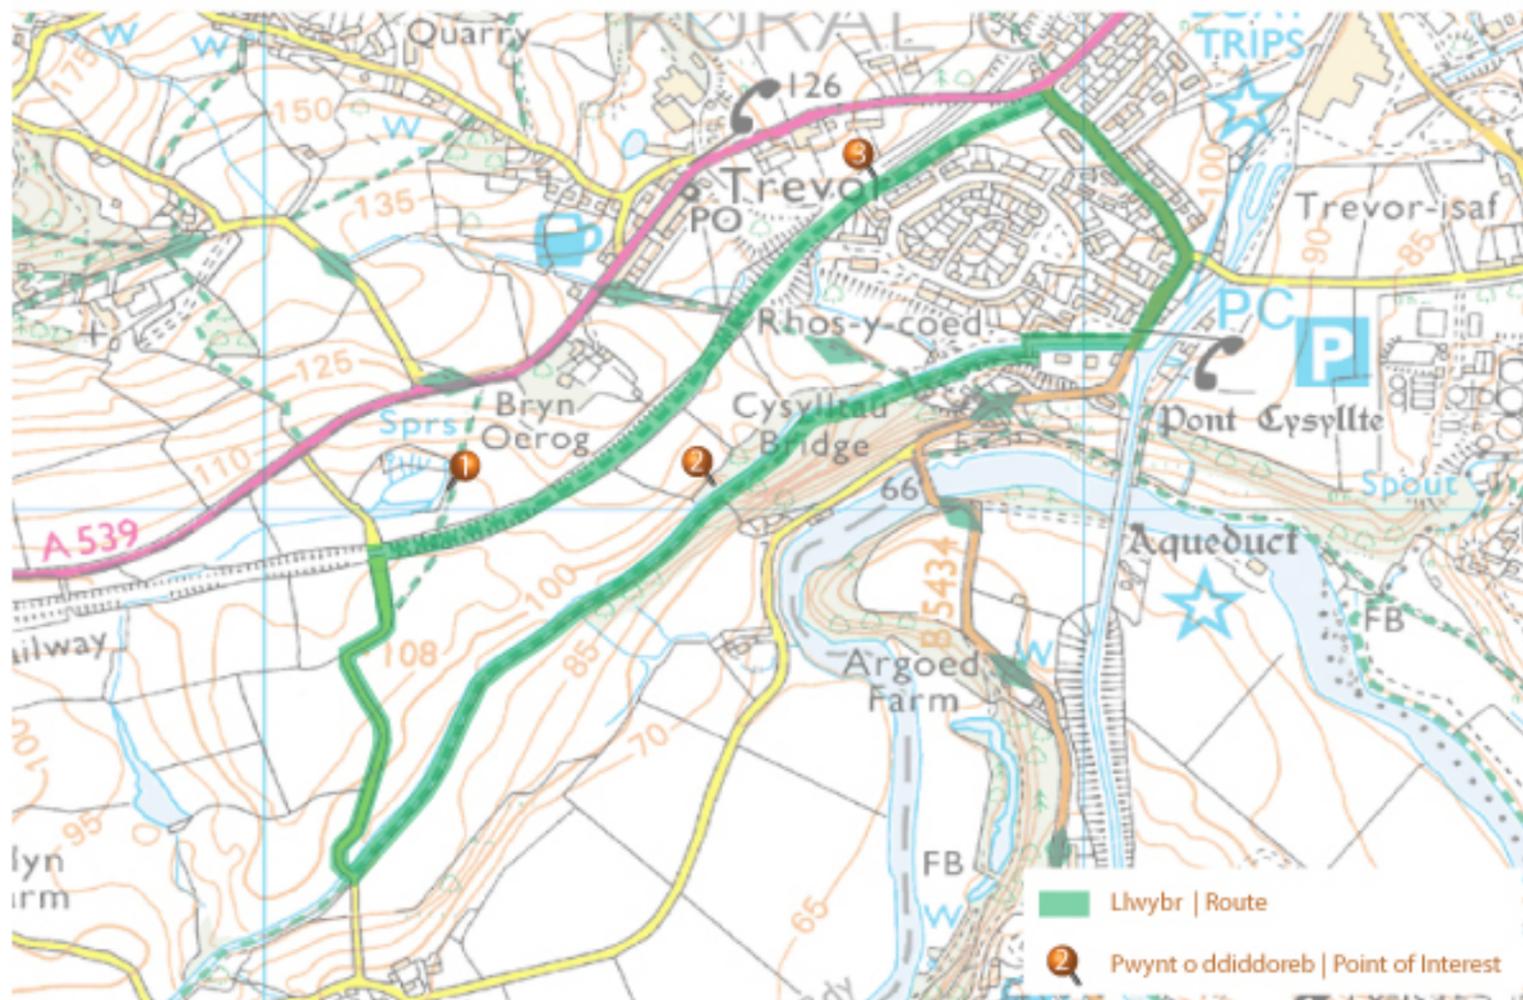

1 Fynnon Oerog

Just adjacent to the railway line is Fynnon Oerog, where a spring rises from the ground. The clear, cold waters have been renowned for hundreds of years for their healing powers, and were "in great repute as a bath for the cure of rheumatic affections." Today the waters are used to provide water to Llangollen and the surrounding area.

2 Llangollen Canal

The canal was built between 1795 and 1808 by two outstanding figures in the field of civil engineering: Thomas Telford and William Jessop. Together, they used innovative techniques to overcome the challenges of the local terrain, most notably with the Pontcysyllte Aqueduct which crosses the Dee Valley on nineteen cast-iron spans at a height of 126 feet / 38.4 metres. Another amazing achievement of this dynamic partnership was that the canal was built with great sensitivity to its impact on the landscape around it. Indeed, it quickly became a feature of great wonder and curiosity and drew in many visitors to the area. The Pontcysyllte Aqueduct and Canal was internationally recognised for its importance when it became a World Heritage Site in 2009. The site stretches for 11 miles from the Horseshoe Falls just past Llangollen to the Chirk Aqueduct and on to Gledrid in Shropshire. It is an ideal way of exploring this part of the Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty.

3 Yr Hen Reilffordd

Cafodd y rheilffordd i gysylltu Rhiwabon ac Abermaw ei hadeiladu yn y 1860au ar gyfer diwydiannau lleol, gan gynnwys cario llechi a glo o Acrefair a chalch o Drefor. Roedd hefyd yn cario ymwelwyr i Llangollen, a oedd eisoes yn boblogaidd gydag ymwelwyr. Mae gorsaf Trefor yn dal i'w gweld ar ben Ffordd yr Orsaf o'r llwybr - ei henw gwreiddiol oedd 'Chwrela'. Daw'r enw o 'chwareli'.

3 The Old Railway Line.

The railway connecting the Ruabon to Barmouth line was created in the 1860s to serve the local industries, including slate and coal from Acrefair, and lime from Trefor. It also catered for visitors to Llangollen, which was already a popular tourist destination. The station at Trefor, which can still be made out at the Station Road end of the path, was originally called "Chwrela". This name came from the Welsh word "Chwarelau", meaning "quarries."
